

Barcelona will cut cruise ship terminals from seven to five to control rising tourist numbers, following a 21% surge in cruise arrivals and a 20% jump in passengers in early 2025. The city ...

Port of Spain, capital city and chief port of Trinidad and Tobago, southeastern West Indies. It is on the west coast of the island of Trinidad, below the northern peninsula on the Gulf of Paria, which separates the island from ...

Barcelona, Europe's busiest cruise ship port, will reduce its passenger terminal capacity by 2030. The port will go from seven terminals to five, lowering capacity from 37,000 to 31,000 ...

Sustainability has become a key pillar of global port operations. With tighter environmental regulations and net-zero commitments in many parts of the world, ports are under increased ...

European ports have been slow to invest in the shoreside electric infrastructure required to cut air pollution and emissions in line with the requirements of the EU Green Deal, according to a ...

The Port of Dover, which has already reduced its direct carbon emissions by 95 per cent since 2007, is part of a feasibility study to establish the first zero-carbon trade route between the UK and France.

Promoting cooperation to reduce emissions in maritime transport As countries accelerate their commitment to sustainable development and carbon neutrality, the Melbourne conference is ...

Decarbonization is one of the most pressing issues of the global transport industry, where every actor of the supply chain is doing their part to reach zero emissions goals by some time during the first half of the 21st ...

Proper implementation and compliance with these regulations are crucial not only to avoid penalties but also to optimize operational efficiency and reduce costs. These measures reflect an evolution in the global strategy for ...

Moreover, it reduces the adoption of fossil fuels, which are majorly utilized in traditional cement production. Furthermore, factors such as rising government initiatives to reduce carbon ...

Introduction Algeciras Port, located in the southern tip of Spain, is one of the busiest ports in the world and a key hub for global maritime trade. With the increasing focus on ...

The city of Barcelona (Spain) will reduce its cruise terminal count from 7 to 5 by 2030 in response to rising concerns over overcrowding and urban strain. This development follows a 20% ...

Reduced carbon emissions port of Spain

According to the latest report by DNV, the maritime sector faces a 2025 marked by stricter regulations on greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions, with key policies such as EU MRV, IMO DCS, EU ETS, and FuelEU Maritime ...

Reduced carbon emissions port of spain

Web: <https://ekusenitours.co.za>